The following from the Times-Star, Cincinnati, refers to an old Springfield lad: Charles Evans, of Delhi, was a good County Solicitor and failed of re-election when the Democrats had control of the county. There are to be two really first-class giltedged, silver-handled funerals in Columbus before long. Of the same the Bucyrus Journal, who at first disapproved of the location of the Convention, now says:

The preparations of the citizens of Spring-field for the Republican State Convention are being made so vigorously that the echoes are heard all over the State. The city that, m re than any other in the State, has for years been a representative of manufacturing energy will show how thoroughly she can, in an em-ergency, manufacture a first-class article of comfort and accommodation for the reprecomfort and accommodation, for the repre sentative men of the party that adopts "pro-tection to manufacturers" as a cardinal doc-trine of its political creed.

Major Bickham and Mr. Halstead think that Mr. Forsker will be nominated on the first ballot, if not by acclamation, at the Springfield Convention, but do not give much data on which to figure out that result, as a foregone conclusion. Per contra, Mr. Dan. A. Rudd, another distinguished journalistic nag. evidently a horse of another color, says: The reason why G-neral Beatty will be nominated is, because he is the strongest man mentioner for the office; because he stands fairly and squarely on the question of human rights; because of his eminent qualifications; and chief of all, because he, more than any living man, represents these measures for which this Nation poured out its blood and treasures. Any one with half an eye can see the tide swelling each day. Indications now point that General Beatty will be nominated

Now we are anxious to hear from Mr. Quincy Campbell, of Belletontaine, whether General Kennedy is not to be nominated by acclamation also? Let us have a "fair these essays, represents a type of the Ameri-can woman very interesting to study. She has read a good deal, and her active intellect has read a good deal, and her active intellect has attacked many of the unsolved problems in the philosophy of life. The most stupendous subjects of thought or speculation do not terrify her. She stauds up in the presence of the wisdom of all ages with quite as much self-possession as a clever and coursects out Yankee school-mistress might be expected to display if confronted by the whole French Academy. Intellectually she is something of an ascetic, something of a mystic, something of an exaltee. She has no patience with the modern pessimists. She discusses with equal readiness the teach-She discusses with equal readiness the teachings of Gautama, Carlyle, Mr. Hume and Mahomet. We are not surprised to learn that Miss Cleveland has written a good deal of poetry. It is to be hoped that the success of this volume of prose essays on historical, ethical, and theological subjects will be sufficiently pronounced to encourage her to submit to the public a volume of her best verses.

SPRINGFIELD SEMINARY.

We are very much gratified to be able to state that the year now closing has been the most successful in the history of this institution. It has never been the chief object of this school to make money. The liberal and enterprising gentlemen who have been the trustees of the Seminary, from the start, have constantly aimed at one single result—the maintenance of a strictly first-class institution for the higher education of young ladies, embracing also primary department which should afford the best possible facilities for a limited number of children. We hazard nothng in saying that the highest hopes of the Board of Trustees have been fully realized, and that the Springfield Seminary is, and has been from the start, one of the institutions in which all our people may take

The projectors of the school were peculiarly fortunate in securing for their principal teacher Mrs. Ruth A. Worthington, whose ability as a teacher is only equalled by her skill as an administrator, and whose perfectly poised character has commanded the respect of this community in a very remarkable degree. It is certainly within bounds to say that a more painstaking, conscientious teacher does no, probably, live. People who are intelligently anxious about the education of their children cannot be content with the mere literary attainments of teachers, or even their aptness to teach; there is an "unconscious influence" exerted by character, which is of the utmost importance in moulding the habits and shaping the destiny of the young. Mrs. Worthington's work as a teacher, merely, is of the The Cleveland Press, of Saturday, says: very highest order-the influence of her 1. Mademoiselle Aquarone, of Paris, France, an accomplished English as well as French scholar, has proved to be a great acquisition to the school, and to the social life of the city. It may be doubted if any institution in the land affords better facilities for acquiring a thorough knowledge of the elegant language which has come to be regarded as an essential part, almost, of a polite education

Miss Minnie Rhinebart, of the primary department, is a graduate of the Seminary. She is one of four who took the Harvard examinations, some years ago, conducted by a Harvard professor, a test of scholarship of the most exacting kind. Her success in her new position, we understand, has been marked.

We learn that at a recent meeting of the board of trustees all these teachers were cordially and unanimously invited to re turn, and that all have signified their intention to do so. It is also stated that the ncome of the school from tuitions has paid all the expenses of the Seminary for the past year, and left a small balance in the treasury. We congratulate the faculty and trustees on this result.

The commencement exercises will be held on Friday evening of this week, in the Seminary Chapel, and on Monday and Tuesday nights of next week in High Street M. E. Church, the graduating exercises occurring on Tuesday evening.

The following gentlemen constitute the board of trustees: John Foos, Asa S. Bughnell, George H. Frey, Robert Johnson, P. P. Mast and John H. Thomasrare combination, certainly, of financial strength and executive ability.

One of the first toys that a listle Ra-kimo has is a small bow of whalebone or light wood; and sitting on the end of the snow bed he shoots his toy ar-rows, under the direction of his father rows, under the direction of his father or mother or some one who cares to play with him, at something on the other side of the snow house. This is usually a small piece of boiled meat, of which he is very foud, stuck in a crack between the anow blocks; and if he hits it, he is entitled to eat it as a reward, although the little fellow seldom needs such encouragement to attimulate him. such encouragement to stimulate him in his plays, so lonesome and long are the dreary winter days in which he lives buried beneath the snow.

In this sense, the little Eskimo boy has plenty of targets to shoot at, for the igloo door is nearly always filled with the heads of two or three dogs watching the haby's mother closely; and if she turns her head or back for a moment, they will make a rush to steal something, and to get out as soon as possible before she can pound them on the head.

Dound them on the head.

In these exciting raids of a raif-dozen hungry dogs, the little marksman is liable to get, by all odds, the worst of the encounter. He is too small to be noticed, and the first big dog that rushes by him knocks him over; the next probably rolls him off the bed to the floor; another upsets the lamp full of oil on him; and while he is reeking with oil, another big dog, taking him with oil, another big dog, taking him for a sealskin full of blubber, tries to for a sealskin full of blubber, tries to drag him out, when his mother happens to rescue him after she has accidentally pommeled him two or three times with the club with which she is striking at the dogs; and if it were not for his hideous yelling and crying, one would hardly know what he is, so cevered is he with dirt, grease and snow. Thus the dogs occasionally have their revenge on the young sharp-shooter.—

At a mess dinner the conversation turned on animal training. "Ah!" said Maj. Binks, "I remember, when I was at Boggleywallah, I tamed an oyster. He used to follow me all over the house like a dog. The Kitmaghars used to bring him in to dessert, like a child, and he would sit on the table at my side, with his shell open, and crack filberts—most affectionate little creatore." "Have you got him still, Ma-jor?" asked a doubting editor. "No, sir; he came to an untimely end. A friend of mine came into the diningfriend of mine came into the dining-room in my absence, saw the oyster with his shell open, and swallowed him. Father, Mother, and Three Sisters Dead.
Mr. David Claypool, formerly Sergeantat-Arms of the New Jersey Senate, and now Notary Public at Cedarville, Cumberland Co., N. My work (shipsmithing) was very straining on me with my weak constitution, and I was rapidly going to the grave. While in this condition I commenced using Mishler's Herb Bitters, and it saved my life. The secret of the almost invariable relief and cure of consumption, dysentery, diarrhées, dyspepsia, indigestion, kidney and liver complaints, when Mishler's Herb Bitters is used, is that it contains simple, harmless, and yet powerful ingredients, that act on the blood, kidneys, and liver, and through them strengthens and invigorates the whole system. Purely vegetable in its composition; prepared by a regular physician; a standard medicinal preparation; endorsed by physicians and druggists. Typhoid Fever!

I am sixty-seven years old, and have fived in this (Hall) county all my life. Up to twenty-sight years ago I was regarded as the atrongest man in the neighborhood—the most robust in health. In November, 1886, I had a long and serious spell of typhold fever. It left me emaciated and a cripple in my right leg. At times that limb was swollen an enormous size, being twice as large as its natural condition, and inflamed and angry in appearance. From my knee down small sorve came, and at the ankle a large ulcer came, which discharged poisonous matter. My whole system became infacted. The doctors would patch me up for a while, but the ulcer would never heal. The mercury and potash with which they doesd me brought on rheumatism and dyapepeia. I was an object of pity to all my friends, dome thought that the only hope to save lile was amputation. I continued to grow worse, and for three years I have not worn a shee. Hope had almost left me. Brit's dipectife was suggested, and I commenced its use at once. From the very first I began to feel better. I had taken thirty-six bottles, and the shadows which had darhened my life for twenty-sight years have all been disalpated. The effect of the medicine has been wonderful indeed. Today I am ashle to attend to all my farming interests, and walk from one to five miles per day. I am satisfied that she disace is entirely perhan up, and henceforth I am to be free from those terrible apprehensions and suffering which demandy made my life miserable.
